Mr. Moquin:

I wanted to take the opportunity to thank you for the excellent job you did in teaching me how to protect our aircraft finishes with the PPS technology product. As you worked side-by-side with my staff and I; we were able to learn how to properly apply the product for maximum protection. You also furthered our understanding of how this product is different from a wax.

Before we even began, I stated that the aircraft we were going to apply this product to was not new, and far from a "hangar queen." This is an aircraft that we use almost every day for transporting our customers and employees, flying in the harshest of conditions and spending a lot of time out in the elements. I considered the paint to be in good condition, as we wash and wax the aircraft from time to time. After applying the PPS product to the finish, I was impressed with the results. Not only did the aircraft look great, it stays cleaner longer! Having had the product on the subject aircraft for several months now, we still are impressed by the results. The water still beads up and the finish has been easy to maintain; even on a hard working bird. Since this aircraft will spend a good amount of time in the elements, it makes me feel better to know it is protected from UV, which over time will destroy paint.

This aircraft is a first impression for my company, and it need to look as good as it performs. I feel confident in knowing that with the PPS product protecting the finish of our aircraft; it WILL look good for a long time.

Please feel free to use this letter as a reference.

Sincerely,
